Re: United States v. Jason Lewis, 13 Cr. 242 (SAS)

Dear Judge Scheindlin:

The defendant is scheduled to be sentenced in this matter on November 3, 2014, at 4:30 p.m. For the reasons explained below, the Government respectfully submits that, provided that the defendant agrees on the record at sentencing to waive any right to seek a sentence modification, a sentence of 63 to 78 months' imprisonment be imposed at sentencing.

Background

The defendant was one of approximately 30 targets of a joint investigation by the New York City Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation into heroin and crack cocaine trafficking and violence by the Briggs Avenue Organization, a criminal organization that operated in the area of 194th Street and Briggs Avenue in the Bronx, New York. At this time, almost all of the targets of that investigation have pled guilty pursuant to plea agreements with the Government.

The Government generally views each of the defendants in this case as fitting into one of three categories: (1) leader; (2) those with a more intermediate role, such as manager, high-level street seller, or someone responsible for storing large amounts of narcotics; or (3) low-level street seller. The Government made plea offers based on these classifications. The Government did not use role adjustments to distinguish defendants from each other, but rather used the various statutory penalty provisions based on drug weight set out in 21 U.S.C. § 841(b)(1) as a proxy for role in the Organization: leaders were given offers with the drug weight set out in Section 841(b)(1)(A); those who played a more intermediate role were given offers with the drug weight set out in Section 841(b)(1)(B); and low-level street sellers were given offers with a lower drug weight. Within these broad categories, the Government also considered a defendant's criminal history, or lack thereof, and other mitigating or aggravating factors in deciding on an appropriate plea offer.

The Defendant's Conduct

The defendant, Jason Lewis, was a street seller of heroin. In the structure of the Organization, the Government places him in the lower-tier of defendants. As a result, the Government agreed to accept a plea without a mandatory minimum sentence.

The defendant's Guidelines offense level is 21, and he is in Criminal History Category VI, resulting in a stipulated Guidelines range of 77 to 96 months' imprisonment. Further, it is the current policy of the Department of Justice that a two-level downward variance is generally warranted from the offense level specified in Section 2D1.1(c) of the November 1, 2013 version of the Guidelines manual. Consistent with this policy, this Office will take the position that the defendant should be sentenced as though the applicable Guidelines range were 63 to 78 months' imprisonment, provided that the defendant agrees on the record at sentencing to waive any right to seek a sentence modification pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Section 3582(c).

In light of the substantial amount of heroin sold by the Organization, the defendant's role, and his lengthy criminal history (including numerous drug offenses and a 2005 conviction for possession of a firearm), the Government respectfully submits that a sentence of 63 to 78 months' imprisonment is appropriate here, and would be sufficient, but not greater than necessary, to satisfy: (1) the need to reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense; and (2) the need to afford adequate deterrence to criminal conduct.

Respectfully submitted,

PREET BHARARA
United States Attorney
